To Whom It May Concern,

Passion, energy, determination, and deeply rooted respect for children and youth make for a powerful combination in education. Rahul Gopal has demonstrated that he has these traits in abundance. He has served a number of our families over the past many years, and earned significant commendation for the impact he has had on our students.

Recently, Mr. Gopal reached out to express his desire to provide tutoring, homework and study support to small groups at our school. We assigned him the task of providing guidance to entire classes as they prepared for their first tests of the year. In his irrepressible way, he managed to get the students stirred up about their upcoming tests with a renewed commitment to applying wise strategies. No small feat, our teachers were grateful for his energizing presence and sound instruction.

Our relationship with Mr. Gopal has just begun, but it is evident that his commitment to serving students and their families to the best of his significant abilities is a fundamental part of who he is. I am confident in sharing that he will bring his full complement of passion, energy, determination and respect to all opportunities that support students in their learning. I highly recommend that he be considered as a worthy candidate for any such opportunities.

Sincerely,

Andrea Fanjoy
